

Employee Training and Development Group

- ❖ How to Fall Back In Love with Your Job: Have you ever asked yourself "why did I choose this career?" or "why do I stay?" Each of us has days when questions like these resound in our head. You can bet if you have these thoughts, individuals who work with you have them too.

While pondering the answers to our job satisfaction is normal and acceptable occasionally, there are times when the questions get louder and demand solid answers.

On November 14th from 2:00 to 4:00 pm in the level 3 classroom, Linda Johnson will conduct a workshop she calls Rekindling the Flame - revving up your job satisfaction.

Dr. Johnson joined is in the Department of Parks, Recreation and Tourism Management (PRTM), where she teaches courses in recreation theory, therapeutic recreation, and human relations. She received the 1998 Award for Teaching Excellence in Community Leisure Services and the 1998 Award for Overall Teaching Excellence in PRTM. If you would like to sign up for this class, then please contact Sherri Stevens at sherri@home.com.

- ❖ Dealing with Difficult People: On November 30th from 10:00 am to noon in the level 3 classroom, Andy Kline will conduct a seminar on effective ways to deal with difficult people.

This seminar is designed to specifically address the difficulties that arise when dealing with others. Mr. Kline will examine the forms of verbal and non-verbal cues that should be considered when interacting with others. Emphasis will be placed on situations and solutions for dealing with difficult people.

More information will be forthcoming about Mr. Kline. If you would like to register, then please contact Sherri Stevens at sherri@home.com.

For questions, comments, or suggestions, please contact Susan Miller
(smiller@home.com)

