

Can you imagine...

- Booking a customer who is left waiting at the airport for a limousine to pick him up? He impatiently checks his watch, half from infuriation and half from realization, with the knowledge that he is going to be late for that important business meeting. What is the excuse?
- Sending a limousine to impress a high profile client only to find out that the company you hired sent an inferior car or used unprofessional drivers? What is the excuse?
- Using a transfer company that will try to steal your customers by passing out their own business cards or using their own company name? What is the excuse?
- Calling your limousine company and finding out that you can not book a high-level client because they are closed or their phone services is only available during certain hours? What is the excuse?
- Waiting for days to receive time or charges from your limousine company? What is the excuse?

"Excellence is never an accident; it is the result of high intention, sincere effort, intelligent direction, skillful execution, and the vision to see obstacles as opportunities."—Jerold Panas
